Educator of the Year 2019 Awardees

REGINA BRAHAM

Regina has co-designed a nationally recognized dating violence education and counseling program for teenagers featured in Newsweek, The New York Times (NJ section) and several television shows. She is the co-author of the article "Coordinating a Community Response to Teen Dating Violence, by Barrie Levy and the recipient of the Beverly Crawford Award given by New Jersey Child Assault Prevention (CAP)

DR. ANTHONY J. IACONO

Anthony is deeply committed to the Morris County community and the students of County College of Morris. The college's commitment to serve the residents and businesses of Morris County and the State of New Jersey and to sustain engaged citizenship within a diverse population of students and community members is reflected in the many partnerships he has formed with the non-profit community to bring services and resources to students in financial need.

SAMANTHA KINDBERG

Samantha has been shaping the lives of children for more than ten years. From Camp Director through Student Teaching, Samantha has a long history of working with Morris County children and families. She is known for creating and providing an outstanding learning atmosphere that is creative, stimulating, enriching and supportive. Samantha became a certified Lifeguard and used her certification volunteering to teach underprivileged children to swim. Samantha is a recipient of the Girl Scout Gold Award and the Angela Lapore Memorial Award.
